FOI Ref 22865

Request - You asked Staffordshire Police (SP) the following:

- How many cases have involved 3D printers in each of the last 4 years?
- How many of these led to a conviction?
- How many instances of 3D printers being used to create illegal weapons, or parts for illegal weapons, have been investigated in each of the last 4 years?
- How many of these led to a conviction?

SP received your request on 11/05/2026 and have processed this under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA).

SP's response to your enquiry is as follows:

In accordance with Section 17(1) of the Freedom of Information Act, this letter represents a refusal notice for this request.

The following exemption has been applied:

- Section 12(1) where the cost of compliance exceeds the appropriate limit.
- Section 12(1) does not oblige a public authority to comply with a request for information if the authority estimates that the cost of complying with the request would exceed the prescribed limit'.

The above information has been withheld for the following reasons:

There is no method by which SP can readily retrieve information from our crime recording systems to answer this request. Within our crime recording database there is no specific field or flag applied in which the use of a 3D printer would be routinely recorded. This level of detail would be recorded in any number of free text fields across the whole crime report. For the time period requested, there have been in excess of 300,000 recorded offences that would need to be manually searched to establish whether a 3D printer was involved. In relation to the question regarding 3D printers being used to create illegal weapons, there are more than 130,000 offences in the H.O. categories of violence and possession of weapons that would again need to be manually searched. To extract this data would therefore require a very labour-intensive manual trawl through each record and all associated crime reports.

From dip sampling, it has been estimated that it would take approximately 5 minutes to review each record to answer this request, this would equate to a minimum of 25,000 hours. To achieve this task would therefore exceed the 18-hour time and cost threshold of the Freedom of Information Act by a considerable margin.

Advice and assistance

Section 16 of the Act places an obligation upon the Authority to provide advice and assistance, to comply with this obligation please see below.

Unfortunately, SP cannot suggest a way in which your request could be simplified or pared down to bring it within the confines of the time and cost threshold.

Please find the below link to some of the information requested.
